DISCUSS ISSUES

President Lyndon Johnson listens intently to Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel as the two leaders meet at the LBJ ranch in Texas to discuss Middle East issues.

Johnson Agrees to Review Of Israel's Defense Capability

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel ended overtime talks at the LBJ Ranch Monday and said that Johnson had agreed to active, sympathetic review of Israel's "military defense capability."

No offer of U. S. arms aid was announced. Johnson and Eshkol also "re-stated their dedication to the establishment of a just and lasting peace in the Middle East," in the spirit of a United Nations resolution of Nov. 22.

Peace in that uneasy area of the world had been billed as the prime topic of discussions between the President and prime minister—talks which began Sunday, continued Monday, and ran three hours past the time set for Eshkol's departure.

Freezing rain and icing conditions compelled Eshkol to leave by car rather than plane for Bergstrom Air Force Base at Austin, 65 miles away, en route back to New York.

Johnson and Eshkol ended their talks under a cloud of renewed fighting on the Israeli-Jordanian frontier.

There was a reaffirmation also of calls by the two men for peace elsewhere in the world, with no direct mention of Vietnam. They said:

The United Nations resolution on the Middle East which the Johnson-Eshkol statement mentioned was a British proposal adopted by the security council. It embraced all but one of "five great principles for peace" Johnson had listed in a speech on June 19, 1967, to a foreign policy conference for educators at the State Department in Washington. Johnson called for:

- (1) Recognition of rights of nations in the area to live,
- (2) Progress in solving the refugee problem,
- (3) The right of innocent maritime passage for all nations in international waterways.

(4) Limitation of the arms race, and

(5) Respect for political independence and territorial integrity.

Prince Sihanouk Indicates Bowles Wasting His Time

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Ambassador Chester Bowles arrived Monday on a mission for President Johnson to discuss the use of Cambodian territory by Communist Vietnamese troops, but Prince Norodom Sihanouk indicated Bowles was wasting his time.

Sihanouk told newsmen Sunday he would meet with Bowles on Wednesday and suggest the United States withdraw its troops from South Vietnam. Johnson arranged the Bowles mission after Sihanouk said he would welcome a presidential envoy to discuss the use of Cambodia as a sanctuary by Communist troops fighting in Vietnam.

Bowles, U.S. ambassador to India, flew from New Delhi and was met by Cambodia's minister of information and the protocol director of the Foreign Ministry.

He said then he would "never let any foreigner occupy the

Dangerous Intersections Chief Topic of Meeting

Dangerous school intersections in Warren were a main topic of discussion at the Warren County School District board meeting Monday night. The board voted to request Warren Borough Council to "investigate the matter of providing either auxiliary or traffic police" at intersections.

The discussion was prompted by the Market st. elementary school PTA. Attorneys William F. Clinger Jr., and Robert L. Wolfe asked the board, on behalf of the PTA, to see about providing a policeman at the intersection of Market and Second sts. during peak use periods.

Clinger, in a letter, asked that the policeman usually at Second and Liberty sts, cover the Market st. intersection for four 15-minute periods each day.

Wolfe, appearing in person, informed the board of state law governing such police duties. He said the borough code allows borough councils, on the request of school boards, to appoint "school police," who are not covered under civil service or the police pension plan. They would be paid jointly by the council and the school board.

Clinger said that schoolchildren have been struck at the Market st. intersection four times in the past two years—the most recent case being on Friday, Jan. 5, when the child struck required stitches. Wolfe said he understood that three children had been struck just during the last school term, mostly by cars making turns.

In other action, the board heard a request from Warren County Education Association, a teacher's organization, that five items be added to the list of voluntary paycheck deductions. The items were, in order of priority, for credit union contributions, professional dues, savings bonds, annuities, and mutual funds. The request was referred to the board's finance committee.

The board authorized the advertisement for public sale of the property and buildings at the old Russell elementary school.

The following properties in Clarendon Borough will be purchased for the proposed Allegheny Valley Elementary School, under a board resolution: property belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Ferguson, for $7,500; to Mr. and Mrs. David Maxwell, for $10,000; and to Pennzill Oil Co., for $11,800, (this property including 18 acres, five oil wells, and a 5-year oil income).

An agreement to collect earned income tax for Sugar Grove and Triumph townships was approved by the board.

Norge Luvison, buildings and grounds director, reported that work on the addition to Eisenhower High School is two and a half months behind schedule. He said this was due to bad weather and the steel truss strike. When the weather improves, Luvison said, the contractor will be asked to greatly increase his work force in order to catch up. Completion date for the project has been set at Dec. 28.

Court House Closed

The Warren County Court House will be closed from 1:45 to 2:45 p. m. today out of respect for the late Warren G. Lowe, who was serving his third term as prothonotary and clerk of courts.

Budget Director Resigns, Assistant Will Succeed Him

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — President Johnson announced Monday night the resignation of Budget Director Charles L. Schultze — his chief of staff in developing the financial program of the government which runs to well over $100 billion a year.

To replace Schultze, Johnson tapped Assistant Director Charles J. Zwick.

Schultze is the second top economic adviser to President Johnson to resign within the past week.

Last week, Johnson announced the resignation of Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and named him ambassador to Italy.

Schultze plans to join the Brookings Institution, a private research group with headquarters in Washington, as a senior fellow, a new post. Brookings is headed by Kermit Gordon, whom Schultze succeeded as budget director.

The switch in the Budget Bureau post came at a time when Johnson is attempting to complete the budget for the 1969 fiscal year—a new look budget that may run to more than $180 billion.

In the 10 days Johnson has been at his Texas ranch, Schultze has been a frequent commuter—and he has agreed to remain on until the job is finished on the new spending program.

Schultze, besides going to the Brookings Institution, is also re-joining the University of Maryland faculty for part-time teaching. An effective date for his resignation has not been set.

The budget bureau director said in Washington he talked about leaving office as early as last June but agreed to stay on until the new budget is prepared.

Fourth Transplant Patient Now in Critical Condition

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Mike Kasperak's condition became critical Monday—the second day after his failing heart was replaced by another—but doctors managed to halt internal bleeding that threatened his life.

They said his new heart appeared to be functioning "very well."

Doctors at Palo Alto-Stanford Medical Center said Kasperak was conscious. The bleeding from stomach and intestines two days after the operation stemmed from liver disease, they said.

They said the many complications suffered by the 54-year-old steelworker were "severe but solvable." He had been reported in satisfactory condition earlier in the day despite expected difficulty in breathing.

Kasperak's condition became critical when the bleeding began. Fresh blood transfusions and other measures apparently stopped the bleeding, attending physicians said in a mid-afternoon bulletin.

Dr. Norman E. Shumway and a team of Stanford Medical School performed the transplantation Saturday night. They gave Kasperak the heart of a 43-year-old housewife.

Dr. Blaiberg

May Go Home Soon

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Christian N. Barnard said Monday that heart transplant patient Dr. Phillip Blaiberg may be sent home "in another two weeks if he continues to do as well as he is doing now."

Commissioners Take Step Toward Better Operations

The Warren County Commissioners yesterday took another step toward a more economic and efficient operation in the conduct of county business.

The board unanimously approved a contract with Bell Telephone Co. to revamp the telephone switchboard set-up at the court house by installing a console type system.

Chairman M. David Rice explained that although installation of the new system might represent initial high cost, it should pay for itself in the long run since it would release the switchboard operator for part-time clerical help in the various offices and eliminate the necessity of hiring additional secretarial employees.

Under the present system all outgoing calls and inter-office calls must go through the operator. The new console, to be installed by spring, would eliminate this step with the operator accepting and routing incoming calls and placing long distance communications.

The Commissioners of the Rouse Estate met at 9 a.m. today for an organization meeting to elect a chairman.

Thomas J. Donnelly (D), has already started his study at the Rouse Home. He said it has been discovered that there is no Medicare program at the county home and that steps will be taken to consult with the state department about effecting such a program.

Donnelly also advised there is no inventory system at the county home and that such a system is a must before Medicare can be instituted.

Dr. Rice stated there are only five county homes in the state that can meet the standards of medicare.

Donnelly, in the meantime, has met with Robert Kinney, administrator of Warren General Hospital and the hospital accountant to study that institution's inventory system and was supplied with copies of the forms used. The system at WGH resulted from a survey by Marshall & Stevens, a Philadelphia firm.

The commissioners continue to discuss policies which will be adopted by the board and emphasized that all county business will call for a majority opinion of the board.

The board met last night in Southwest township in a terminal session to verify inclusion in the county zoning ordinance and will meet to take the same step at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Sugar Grove.

On Thursday the commissioners will consult with the Warren County Visiting Nurse Association to determine the feasibility of using the association as a clearing house for use of home-makers trained under the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Commissioner Blain M. Mead announced that a school for new commissioners, chief clerks and county solicitors is scheduled in Harrisburg on March 6. Speakers from various government agencies will be presented and those attending given an opportunity to ask questions about county government.

Warren County solicitor William Mervine attended yesterday's regular meeting.

All students of Warren Campus are invited to attend the Student PSEA chartering ceremony which will take place this evening at 8 o'clock in the hospitality room of the Northwest Savings and Loan Building.

Court Asked to Resolve Equal-Time Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeal to the Supreme Court Monday launched a major challenge to the regulations re-quiring broadcasters to offer free time for individuals or groups to answer "personal attack" and "political ad-itorial."

With a political campaign year heating up, the court was asked to decide before next spring whether the Federal communications Commission equal-time regulations square with the free-press guarantees of the Constitution.

The regulations, the appeal said, encourage self-censorship by broadcasters, inhibit stations from endorsing particular candidates and threaten to sap the journalistic vigor and integrity of networks, stations and newsmen.

The appeal was filed by the Columbia Broadcasting Sys-tem, the National Broadcasting Co., the Radio Television News Directors Association and eight other operators of radio and television stations throughout the country.

Under FCC rules, every television or radio station that broadcasts a statement attacking the "honesty, character, integrity or like personal qualities" of any individual or group, furnish a tape, script or summary of the attack and of-fer free broadcast time for reply.

Additionally, if the station broadcasts an editorial endors-ing or favoring a particular candidate it is required to give other candidates a chance to reply. The rules, issued last summer, expand and strengthen the FCC's longstanding "fairness doctrine." The commission exempted bona fide newscasts and on-the-spot coverage of bona fide news events. However, the appeal said, the rules apply to all editorial commentaries, news interviews and news doc-umentaries.

Council, also, elected to prohibit parking a-long the west side of Johnson st., due to the danger of fall-ing ice, from the roof of the IOOF building.

Other items on the agenda in-cluded an agreement by council members to remove two park-ing meters from in front of the post office and install a five minute parking zone, in that area.

In closing the meeting the council agreed to pay bills amounting to approximately $3100.

Jury Selected for Trial Of Alleged 'Commuter Bandit'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A jury of nine men and three women was picked Monday for the fed-eral trial of grocer William E. Zeller, accused of being the so-called "commuter bandit" who took more than $100,000 from banks.

"We made good progress today—a little better than I ex-pected," remarked Judge Joseph P. Willson after lawyers took only 2½ hours to select a jury plus two men and one woman alternate.

The judge then recessed the trial until Tuesday because Stanley W. Greenfield, an as-sistant U.S. attorney, has a cold and didn't feel up to mak-ing the government's opening remarks to the jury.

Zeller, a quiet 200-pounder, his hair streaked with grey, wore a black suit with a neatly folded white pocket handkerchief. His blonde wife, wearing a black dress and a string of pearls, sat among the specta-tors.

When arrested by the FBI last June, Zeller was living with his wife and four children in an apartment above his neighbor-hood grocery store on Pitts-burgh's North Side.

Zeller watched attentively as his lawyer, James P. Mc-Kenna Jr., questioned pro-spective jurors about whether they had read anything about Zeller or the "commuter ban-dit" in the newspapers.

Most acknowledged they had read about the case or heard about it on television or radio, but only one man was dismissed on grounds he had fixed ideas about it.

Judge Willson repeatedly cau-tioned the jurors to forget what they had read or heard about the case and to refrain from reading newspaper accounts or listening to newscasts about the trial.

"You may have read some-thing about this in the papers," the judge said. "But if you can't set aside this and give this man a fair and impartial trial . . . then you shouldn't sit as a ju-ror."

"There has been a certain amount of publicity in this case," he added. "... but what has been said, I believe, is in the public interest."

News media, particularly in the Pittsburgh area, gave considerable coverage to a string of 16 holdups attributed by authorities to the "com-muter."

It was newsmen who dubbed the elusive robber the "com-muter bandit" because of a po-lice theory at the time that the man lived in the suburbs and drove to town to rob a bank or savings and loan office when he got low on money.

Zeller has been indicted for 10 holdups in which a total of $103,-630 was taken. He also faces trial with Richard P. Chiocca of Mount Oliver on charges of tak-ing $15,040 in another holdup.

Numbing Cold Hits Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Numbing cold hung on through the northeastern section of the nation Monday while heavy snow and sleet closed many highways and caused traffic pileups in areas of the Southwest.

The severe weather sent temperatures below the freezing level early Monday in 47 of the 48 contiguous states. Only Florida, where low readings were in the upper 30s in the northern section, escaped the freeze.

Numerous deaths were attributed to the weather.

In the Southwest, snow and freezing rain spread northward from Texas to the Central Plains.

Travel warnings were in effect from southeastern New Mexico eastward to Louisiana and northward to Oklahoma as the result of a mixture of freezing rain, drizzle and sleet that glazed streets and highways.

A number of major highways in southern New Mexico were made impassable by heavy snow with depths up to 6 inches atop 5 inches already on the ground.

Included were Interstate 10 between Las Cruces, N.M., and El Paso, Tex.; U.S. 54 from Alamogordo, N.M., to El Paso, and U.S. 62-180 between Carlsbad, N.M., and El Paso.

In central New Mexico, roads were snowpacked and slick east of the Rio Grande Valley, including U.S. 66 east of Albuquerque.

The new snow came as ranchers were about finished with clearing roads blocked by storms that isolated hundreds of head of cattle last month.

Freezing rain gave Texas an icy cover to the Gulf of Mexico. Schools and some freeways were closed as a result of the storm that crippled traffic and caused hundreds of accidents.

The temperature dropped to 28 degrees in normally warm Corpus Christi early Monday.

Reports of freezing rain or drizzle came from as far south as Beaumont, Port Arthur, Houston, Victoria and San Antonio. In Dallas, hundreds of householders reported broken water pipes after the temperature dropped to 13 degrees, a record for the date.

The large high pressure system responsible for the cold weather in the eastern two thirds of the nation the last few days was moving eastward Monday.

But the biting cold continued in the Northeast and East where up to 10 inches of fresh snow fell Sunday.

Temperature extremes Monday afternoon ranged from -20 near Massena, N.Y., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

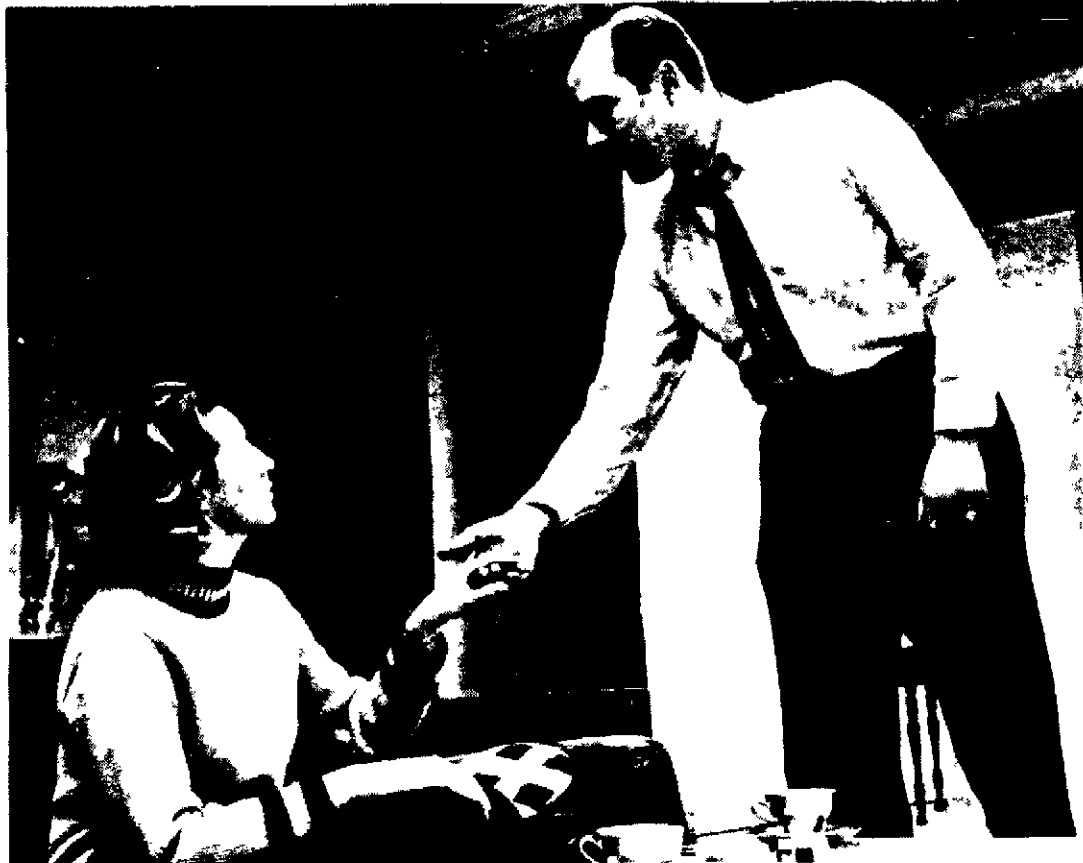

Methodist Decline In Membership

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The Methodist Church in the United States has 10,289,214 members, a decline of 21,405 in the last year, the denomination's statistical office reported Monday.

The drop in membership was the second in two years. A year ago a decrease of 20,955 was reported.

Despite the drop in membership, Methodist giving set a record. During the fiscal year that ended May 31, 1967, a total of $664,795,520 was given for all church causes, an increase of $12,812,484 over the preceding 12 months.

Armed Robbery Conviction Set Aside

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The armed robbery conviction of Richard Mullins of Marion, Ohio, in Crawford County, has been set aside by the State Supreme Court on grounds the defendant was entitled to a lawyer when he pleaded guilty in 1962.

Mullins had appealed to the high tribunal against an order of the State Superior Court which had reversed a ruling in Crawford County directing a new trial be held.

Justice Michael Eagen, in a 6-1 decision, said it was necessary for the Commonwealth to prove that Mullins understood fully his right to waive representation by counsel "and this it failed to do."

It was understood originally the Supreme Court had ordered a hearing on the habeas corpus petition, whereas in fact it granted Mullins' request for a new trial.

We Lost Last Weekend

The Warren area was unable to make it through the first week of the new year without a depressing headline. This appeared in the morning issue of Saturday, January 6, 1968, and read: "Prominent Warren Men Die." There is always sadness to family and friends when an obituary appears. But sometimes it goes beyond those who are close.

Such was the case when Clifford R. Betts, local industrialist, and Warren G. Lowe, county prothonotary, passed on last Friday.

We may ask, why? This is because these two men both had "families" and friends they never knew they had. Each was dedicated, friendly and generous in his own radiating way.

Much could be said here for Cliff Betts and Warren Lowe. But for those whose respect they shared we can only say: They will be missed.

SYLVIA PORTER

How to Close the Travel Gap

The passport office at Rockefeller Center was almost as crowded last week as at the peak of the summer tourist season. I had gone to check the responses of these overseas tourists to President Johnson's call for a reduction of $500 million a year in our travel outside the Western hemisphere.

"It does seem funny to be getting a passport to-day," said one embarrassed man. "But I'm in the shoe business and I must personally see our suppliers in Rome."

"My husband travels to Europe on an average of once a month and I'm not going to sit back here alone," said a middle-aged lady. "A tax on my travel? My husband will pay it."

"My Christmas present from my parents was a summer vacation in Switzerland," said a charming coed. "I don't want to seem unpatriotic but what difference could my little trip make?"

If these are typical attitudes—and I fear they are—closing the boom in U.S. tourists overseas will be an enormously difficult task.

Nevertheless, the central fact is that we as tourists are now spending $2 billion more a year abroad than foreign tourists are spending here. This is a deficit of crisis magnitude.

Let's get this point very straight now. No matter what we do, we will be criticized. If you visit Santa Fe instead of Seville this summer, the Spanish government will complain that its economy is being unfairly depressed. If you travel on a U.S. airline instead of on a foreign flag carrier, the foreign carrier will insist that unless it earns your dollars, it will not be able to buy U.S. aircraft and everybody will be hurt. There's no easy way out.

But it's a matter of priorities. Assuming that you want to do your part to help save the dollar, here's what you can do:

If you are like the college coed, consider switching your trip to somewhere in North or South America or other approved areas this year.

If you are scheduled for Europe, try to go on a U.S. airline or steamship and make your reservation through a U.S. agent. This will give your dollars to U.S. firms.

If you do go abroad, hold down your spending. Don't load up on goods for which there are U.S. counterparts at home.

If you are a member of a trade organization which holds international meetings, request your officers to schedule the next convention in the U.S. We now play host to less than 10 per cent of the 800 international conventions attended by U.S. citizens each year. This is a ridiculously small percentage. If we could raise it only to 25 per cent, we could cut our balance of payments deficit a minimum of $80 million a year.

If you are like the man in the shoe business, consider bringing your overseas representative to the U.S. for meetings instead of going abroad yourself. The U.S. Travel Service has been trying to promote this through its "Busivisit" program.

If you are in the travel business, start pushing the "See the U.S.A." and "Discover America" programs as never before. These are fine slogans but so far, there has been scant industry-wide cooperation to back them up and even less coordination between private industry and the government.

If you have friends, relatives or acquaintances overseas, encourage them to visit your country and remember every $1 spent on travel here becomes as much as $3 as it moves through the economy. Every travel dollar is a new dollar, all "plus."

It will be weeks before we know what tourist restrictions Congress will vote, and when they'll take effect. But all on our own, we could help close the travel gap. We could do it just by using the above guides to our travel actions this year.

LYNDON, WE UNDERSTAND ABOUT YOUR ASIAN COMMITMENTS, BUT IT'S LIKE THIS . . .

ART BUCHWALD

Over Committed Americans

WASHINGTON — In order to solve U.S. balance-of-payments problems, the President has asked Americans to refrain from leaving the Western Hemisphere for the next two years. He indicated he is making his request with legislation making it difficult for Americans to travel abroad.

This is said to have been one of the toughest proposals any U.S. President has had to make, and the controversy it is already raging in full force.

A manager for one of the Republican presidential candidates told me his nominee's slogan to the voters in 1968 would be: "If I am elected, I will let you go to Europe."

When President Johnson gets his legislation passed, the whole picture of travel could change.

Let us go to a Holiday Inn in Toledo, Ohio. Two American tourists start a conversation.

"What brought you here?" the first tourist asks.

"We were scheduled to go to Toledo, Spain, but when the tourist edict went through we decided to come to Toledo, Ohio, instead. We figure one Toledo's just like another."

"Ole," the other tourist said.

"I don't understand why we can't go to Europe," the first tourist's wife said.

"It's very simple," the second tourist replied. "The United States has made so many commitments abroad that Americans can't go over there any more."

"But what's the sense of having commitments if we can't see them?" the wife asked.

"Because if we went over there we would be spending American dollars, and if we keep spending American dollars we won't be able to fulfill our commitments."

"I know that. But why can the people we're committed to travel, while we can't?"

"Because they don't have any foreign commitments. You can't expect the richest country in the world to allow its citizens to travel willy-nilly all over the globe."

"Why not?"

"Because we can't afford it." "But if we can't travel abroad, won't people lose confidence in the American dollar?"

"Probably."

The husband said, "What I don't understand is why the United States is spending $2 billion to build a supersonic airplane that will carry 450 people to London in two and a half hours if they're not going to let anybody get on the plane."

The first tourist was exasperated. "The plane is not being built for Americans. It's being built for Europeans to fly in who are not encumbered by travel restrictions."

"Well, that makes sense," the wife said.

"You see, if enough Europeans visit America, then our dollar deficit will be balanced and then we'll be allowed to visit them."

"But why would European tourists want to visit America?"

"Because, since American tourists haven't been permitted to visit Europe, all the anti-American feeling there has disappeared and they really have a warm spot in their heart for us again."

"Well, I think we better start sight-seeing," one of the wives said. "What's there to do in Toledo, Ohio?"

"We're going down to the J.C. Penney store. They say it's the best place in town for souvenirs."

"We were told by friends who visited Toledo last year that the best buys for souvenirs are at Woolworth's, providing you haggle with the clerks."

SCIENCE SKETCH

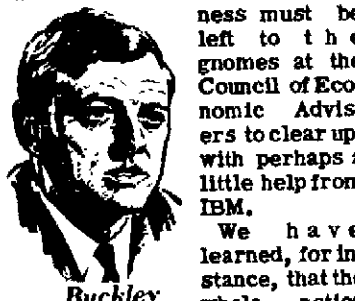

TAKING CHILDREN to a dentist at age two or younger can save them, as teen-agers, from the physical and psychological consequences of bad teeth, says a study by New York University's College of Dentistry.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY

LBJ & The Economic Crisis

Poor LBJ. Now, on top of Vietnam, there is the crisis of the dollar. Unfortunately, the majority of the electorate tend to leave the dollar crisis unexamined, the assumption being that the whole sticky subject is basically impenetrable, and that therefore the whole business must be left to the gnomes at the Council of Economic Advisors to clear up, with perhaps a little help from IBM.

Buckley

We have learned, for instance, that the whole notion that the rich nations can pour money into the poor nations in such quantities as would please the International Redistributivists is, as a matter of fact, a practical impossibility. We are all familiar with the rhetoric of redistribution. A typical statement would be something like the following: "The United States, although consisting of only 6 percent of the world's population, controls 40 percent of the wealth." So? So, let the United States distribute its wealth among the 94 percent.

But the interesting point arises: how, as a matter of practical fact, do you proceed to effect that redistribution, assuming that you are of a mind to do so? The most direct means is just plain foreign aid: give Ethiopia $1 million. Give Ghana $1 million. Give Bolivia $1 million. The current program of foreign aid, so conceived, disposes of something less than one-third of 1 percent of our national income, and that is thought by a lot of brotherly folk as being shamefully low.

But now comes the President of the United States calling this country to economic austerity; because the balance of payments is awry. He seems to be saying that if we succeed in reducing the net flow of dollars outward by 3 billion dollars, i.e. by less than one-third of 1 percent of the national product, then the situation will be rectified. In pursuit of the deliverance of the dollar President Johnson does not suggest any diminution in foreign aid, he suggests three other disciplines. One, American enterprises should curtail their investments abroad. Two, American banks should curtail their lending abroad. And three, American citizens should curtail their traveling abroad.

The common denominators of the three proposals of Lyndon Johnson are a) the strategic wisdom of the recommendations; and b) the curtailment of economic enterprise. The statistical record is very plain, to wit that American investments abroad, whether in West Germany or in Ghana or in Peru, have tended simultaneously to assist local economies, and to generate valuable foreign income.

So that it is clear that freely invested U.S. dollars abroad, which have been at a rate exceeding foreign aid, have benefited both the U.S. and foreign countries. Granted it takes time, if let us say General Motors elects to build a plant in West Germany, to amortize the building costs of that plant. Still, in due course the plant is paid for, and German marks are exchanged into dollars. Meanwhile, American capital makes possible an accumulation of dollar reserves most of which are used to purchase American goods and to contribute to U.S. employment.

And then of course there is the freedom factor. Ernest Bevin, a philosopher of the socialist party of Great Britain, was asked in 1944 what was his definition of freedom, which he spontaneously gave. "Freedom," he said, "is my right to go to Paddington Station and buy a ticket to any bloody place I choose." One year later Mr. Bevin was a member of a government which denied that freedom to Englishmen, even as it is now denied to them; and even as Mr. Johnson now proposes, however tangentially, to restrict it for us by means of taxes on passports, and penalties on days absent from this country.

That is the way it goes under dirigiste liberalism. Suppose that President Johnson had said that the need to increase exports suggested the obvious, namely the need to decrease the cost of American products. Hoho!!! A bright idea! Well then, how do you go about diminishing the price of American products overseas so as to reverse the dollar flow? You make them cheaper. How do you make them cheaper? You remove extrinsic encumbrances upon their manufacture, most conspicuously anti-automation union practices; and 2) you lower taxes.

The trouble is of course that what needs to be said by our statesmen, and what needs to be enacted by our legislators, is unsayable, and unenactable, by politicians who seek political favor. Lyndon Johnson seeks political favor. That is not the way to solve the dollar problem.

Brass Ring for Bowles

(NOTE: Today the brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, is awarded to Chester Bowles, American ambassador to India.)

WASHINGTON — Chester Bowles, the man who has been picked for the delicate job of negotiating with Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia, is a man who was "exiled" by the Kennedy administration to India where he has turned diplomatic defeat into diplomatic victory.

Bowles, then Undersecretary of State, incurred the wrath of Bobby Kennedy after the Bay of Pigs when he was quoted in Time magazine as highly critical of the entire Cuban fiasco. He was so irate that he grabbed Bowles by the lapels and shook him like a small boy. Thereafter Bowles was put on the sidelines and eventually relegated to India.

He had been one of the most experienced men in government, having made a fortune as partner in one of Madison Avenue's most successful advertising firms, Benton and Bowles, then served as wartime Price Administrator, Governor of Connecticut and Congressman from Connecticut. He could have been elected Senator from Connecticut instead of the ill-starred Tom Dodd, had Governor Abe Ribicoff given him the nod.

In India, Bowles has sunk out of sight as far as the American public is concerned. But not as far as the State Department is concerned. His lucid, convincing reports have been responsible for the American policy of supporting India even at such times as its policies against the United States in the U.N. have rubbed Washington the wrong way.

Bowles has argued that the Indian policies against the United States and Israel at the United Nations last June were condemned by every Indian newspaper with the exception of the extreme Communist press; were also denounced by many government supporters on the floor of parliament. The pro-Arab policy resulted from the late Prime Minister Nehru's belief that India had to curry favor with Moslem nations in order to prevent a line-up by Pakistan and other Moslem nations against it.

But, far more important than this, Ambassador Bowles has sold the State Department on the fact that India is the stablest country in mid-Asia and the chief bulwark against communism. Should India slip into the Communist orbit, all the billions we have been spending in Southeast Asia to preserve the independence of South Vietnam would go down the drain.

So far, India has survived 20 years of freedom and has maintained a genuine parliamentary democracy, with four general elections to her credit. In contrast, not half a dozen nations in all Africa and Asia are still governed democratically.

It Wasn't Lip Service

HARRISBURG — The very last official comment by William W. Scranton during his term as Governor was the suggestion that the legislature go full-time—that it become a "partner" in the conduct of Commonwealth affairs.

He had even put the State's money where his mouth was. Already in the works—and authorized by the Legislature itself—are plans for the construction of a new "legislative wing" for the sprawling State Capitol.

At last count, the proposed tab for that construction is $35 million, and is still rising. Swept up by Scranton's enthusiasm, Gov. Raymond Shafer gave the same idea passing notice, last January, in his initial address to the General Assembly.

"The Administration," said the former one-term senator from Crawford County, "will support your efforts for more adequate staffing and modern facilities, to get your job done better and more efficiently."

That was hardly lip service. By year's end each of the 200 House members and 49 senators were working with office space, desks, and phones of their own. Also by year's end, Ray Shafer appears to have had his way at the General Assembly.

cratically or have made any pretense at holding elections.

The popular American conception is that India is a vast, complex nation with too many babies, too many monkeys, too many cows, plus a sprinkling of maharajas, cobras, tigers, mixed with a great deal of dust, hunger and disease.

Actually, however, India has a population greater than all of Africa and Latin America combined, and more than half of the non-Communist people of Asia live within its borders. Furthermore, it is the only non-Communist land route between the West and Asia.

Ambassador Bowles has been highly popular in India, even though he doesn't hesitate to tell Indian officials when they are wrong. He has sent his children to Indian schools, and when they were younger it was a common sight to see them bicycling to school through the streets of New Delhi.

But a large part of his problem has not been with India so much as with the United States. He has had to sell a Congress which is penny-pinching more than ever on foreign aid on the key role which India plays in the world. Its population, which is one sixth of the human race, may eventually veer over to China or to Russia; or on the other hand it could line up permanently with the United States, Australia and Japan.

The direction it takes will depend to a large part on the success of Ambassador Bowles on selling the State Department and Congress on continued U.S. support. For some years American wheat has meant the difference between Indian starvation and revolution or Indian democracy.

But, simultaneous with this aid, the Indian government has asked for help from the United States in the means of practicing birth control, and has achieved phenomenal success. The birth control drive has doubled and redoubled during the past two years and the population growth has slowed down considerably. The Indian government hopes to stabilize it at 670 million people by 1985.

Meanwhile, Indian food production has been increasing. Under American farm tutelage, India this year will reap a record harvest and has set a program to be self-supporting within eight to ten years.

New seed has been imported from the United States, Mexico and the Philippines. Fertilizer factories have been built, pesticides are being used. Irrigation has been increased and there has been a virtual revolution on the farm.

India will still need food support from the United States for the next four or five years, and faces the problem of repaying a $2.5 billion debt to Western nations. However, Ambassador Bowles is convinced that, with some help from the United States and considerable understanding, India will not do what China did under Chiang Kai-shek — deteriorate into communism.

House members and 49 senators were working with office space, desks, and phones of their own. Also by year's end, Ray Shafer appears to have had his way at the General Assembly.

"The experience of 1967," he said in Tuesday's State of the Commonwealth address, "as well as that of other unduly long legislative sessions, demands that a specific time limit be set for each annual session."

That was hardly in keeping with the lesson the Governor had learned as a freshman senator, in the days when Sen. M. Harvey Taylor was calling the shots for both sides of the Legislature. Then, with Democrats in the front office, Sen. Taylor had invented the device of never adjourning sine die. By this procedure the Republican leadership was able to maintain its public stance the year around. It also was an effective way of preventing a Governor from making interim appointments to boards and commissions—and served to freeze the appointees of former governors in office.

This January the struggle between a governor and the Legislature has reached dazzling proportions. Rather than getting his taxes first, Gov. Shafer had spent his early days as governor using up a vast parcel of political chits getting a Constitutional Convention.

Ironically, it was the Democrats who gave him the majorities that won the day for Con-Con—both in the Legislature and on Primary Day last April. Some of Gov. Shafer's closest participants in the General Assembly refused to back the Convention, either here or back home.

In their judgment—and many still make a point of this in guarded private conversations—Constitutional revision could be done more practically—and certainly more economically—in a piecemeal fashion by the Legislature itself.

Now the Governor not only wants the Legislature to limit its sessions. In his address on Tuesday he called for a Pennsylvania Priorities Commission to establish the State's spending requirements for the next five years.

MASON DENISON

Who Is To Blame?

HARRISBURG — Now that Pennsylvanians have started paying their new six percent sales tax (highest in the land) the question might well be asked as to just who is to "blame" for upping the impost from five to six percent?

Fundamentally the Legislature must assume the blame if there is to be any formal placement thereof, inasmuch as the Legislature alone has the power to levy a tax. However, from what might be termed a politically expedient standpoint, goes beyond this particular limited area.

The sales tax was never a part of Governor Shafer's original tax program recommended to the Legislature last June. In fact he never publicly advocated increasing the levy.

On the other hand as everyone on the scene well knows, the Legislature is not about to try to pass a tax bill without the Governor's prior approval. It could face the same fate as the extended legislative session bill faced last week when His Excellency vetoed the posh measure.

To all intents and purposes the sales tax increase has been referred to as a dream-up of Republican legislative leaders—as an answer to the tax deadlock that gripped the Legislature over the gubernatorial tax package.

Thus in theory, or to all public intents and purposes, the Governor was out of the originating picture on this one—or was he?

Actually, approval of the sales tax increase was given in advance to both Republican and Democratic leaders; in fact his office helped line up votes for the bill. Mr. Shafer's answer has been that he needed the money—and this was the package the Legislature presented to him.

In retrospect though it is interesting to note that House Minority Floor Leader Herbert Fineman during the course of preceding tax consultations with His Excellency, listed no less than eleven suggestions anti-administration Democrats felt could preclude the need for heavy-handed tax action, such as the sales tax uppage.

The eleven alternatives Mr. Fineman suggested but waved off by His Excellency:

—Reduce the record-breaking general fund budget;

—Cut back on the number of state payrollers (which has now soared over the 100,000-mark);

—Raise revenue estimates (on the basis that current revenue receipts have been underestimated);

—Close a loop hole in the corporate tax laws;

—Eliminate the usual end-of-the-fiscal-year spending spree;

—Reflect in the budget the $18 million savings the Governor talked about in the administration's much-battered "cost reduction program";

—Have the budget show the $237,000 "saving." Budget Secretary Arthur Sampson talked about with introduction of "punch card operations";

—The Governor said that he had saved $6 million by cutting the state payroll (in spite of the over-100,000-mark) but the budget was never cut by that amount;

—Realize some $40 million through the sale of PIDA second mortgages;

—Make the gross utilities tax retroactive to January 1, as other new business taxes were, thus bringing in an additional $7.5 million;

—Close loopholes in the sales tax favoring manufacturers and shipbuilders, thus making the law more equitable, which Democratic lawmakers contended would bring in more than $100 million. (On this score Democrats even offered to supply most of the votes for passage.)

Nobody wants to take the blame for increased taxes, and in fairness to His Excellency, he could have slipped off the hook quite legitimately early in the game by accepting the recommendations of the tax commission he had appointed. He stuck by his own however—with the exception that the sales tax was not one of his original proposals.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A few weeks ago a saleswoman sounded off about supposedly loving mothers who bullyrag and insult their teenage daughters on shopping trips. My mother and older sister had such slambang fights over clothes that I was afraid to put on a dress either in or out of a store. When my mother took me shopping, I soon learned not to express an opinion. My taste was "farcious." Hers was "elegant." Once when I saw a dress I really wanted, my mother said, in the presence of the saleswoman, "You are as fat as a pig and that dress makes you look like a freak."

From then on I flatly refused to shop for clothes. I told my mother to bring home whatever she liked and I would wear it. I am a grown woman now, but these horrible memories are as vivid as if they had happened yesterday.

I hate clothes and I wear my dresses till they fall apart. To this day, I cannot pass the dress section where we used to shop without being physically ill.

So, to all you saleswomen who hear mothers insult their daughters, please tell them about me. You might lose a sale, but you will gain a star in your crown by letting some beaten-down girl know she has a friend on her side. — RAGBAG

Dear Ragbag: I've always known that clothes are a major bone of contention between young girls and their mothers. (Hair is a close second.) Thank you for telling us what it did to your life. Your letter is bound to strike a few thousand raw nerves around the country.

Dear Ann Landers: May I lie down on your couch for a few minutes?

After reading the letter from the Columbia University graduate who confessed to 12 years of "going with" a married man, then suddenly it dawned on her that she was a fool. I decided to unload my story.

I, too, "went with" a married man for several years. We kept telling each other how beautiful our relationship was and we commiserated over the fact that he was not free to marry me. His wife died suddenly and what happened to me would make a perfect plot for a soap opera.

This man who had been the center of my existence for five years announced within a week of his wife's funeral that we had better stop seeing each other because he wanted to remarry someday, but he would have to marry a RESPECTABLE woman, not one with whom he had been having an affair. Furthermore, he said his family suspected something had been going on between us and they would never accept me.

Within the year he married a woman my age. She was a divorcee but had managed to keep her name clean—something which, unfortunately, I was not smart enough to do. Now I am — PAYING FOR MY STUPIDITY

Dear Paying: Consider the "debt" paid and be thankful you didn't waste 12 years instead of 5. You can make something decent out of your life if you want to. Others in your spot have done it. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: Last week my sister and her friend decided to play my record album. When I got home I found the record had been badly scratched in two places.

This particular friend has a brother I like very much. I don't want to get in bad with her, yet I hate her for ruining my records. She is the careless type and has done this sort of thing before. What do you suggest? — BETWEEN TWO FIRES

Dear B: Keep your records locked up. If your sister's friend wants to hear your records, tell her to come over when you are at home and you'll play them for her. + + +

Two Appearances Tomorrow By Detlef Kraus, Pianist

Members of the Philomel Club of Warren and others interested in music are looking forward with great anticipation to the piano recital which Detlef

Kraus, internationally known concert artist, will present in Beaty auditorium tomorrow night, January 10, at eight o'clock.

A few last-minute tickets are still available and at Blekarck's Music House. Adult tickets sell for two dollars and student tickets for one dollar.

Besides appearing in recital Wednesday evening, Professor Kraus will conduct a lecture-demonstration at Warren Area High School auditorium on Wednesday morning at eight-thirty o'clock, which Philomel members and interested students may attend free of charge. At this session Professor Kraus will listen to five young musicians, Julia Wendell, Laurie and Eliza Tranter, Janna Roop, and Kathy Baker, who are students of Mrs. Charles Eaton and Mrs. Jacob Levinson.

In turn Professor Kraus will make comments on their interpretation before he plays the same piece for them.

In his work as professor of master classes for piano at the Folkwang Hochschule of Essen, Germany, a critic who monitored his teaching declared "His patience and amazing tolerance are the qualities which make Detlef Kraus a truly great teacher."

Kraus, a native of Hamburg, spent many years in Berlin as a student of Wilhelm Kempff, renowned pianist-teacher. In the last two decades Kraus has played nearly 2,500 concerts in over thirty-five countries on five continents.

The German people showed their appreciation for his talents when they awarded him the cultural prize of the city of Kiel in 1961, an annual award presented to the person who had contributed most to German culture.

Week of Prayer At Two Churches

The Bethlehem Covenant and Calvary Baptist Churches are to begin a series of four Prayer Services Wednesday night at Calvary Baptist Church. The theme is "The Prayer of the Savior" and is taken from John, chapter 17.

The four laymen who will develop the theme in brief Bible studies are Ray Davidson, George Dingledein, Walter Swanson and Richard Reed. Services, Wednesday through Friday, are at 7:30 each evening, with the Sunday night service at Bethlehem beginning at 7 o'clock.

Pastors of the respective churches, Alan Heari and A. Wallace Olson, encourage all members and friends to share in these meetings. Calvary will host the Wednesday and Friday services, with the Thursday and Sunday meetings at Bethlehem. There will be no service on Saturday evening.

Rector Of Trinity Memorial Addresses Newcomers Club

The Rev. Richard H. Baker, rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church, was the speaker at the Welcome Wagon Newcomer's meeting held last Thursday in Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church. Father Baker's topic was mission in Micronesia, a most informative talk illustrated with slides.

Rev. and Mrs. Baker spent three years in Guam during which time two of their children were born. A tropical theme was the decor carried out by the hostesses, Mrs. Harry Elliot and Mrs. John Mead, for the evening.

The next Newcomer's meeting will be held at the YWCA on February 1. Before then an informal luncheon will be held at the Inn of the Three Flags on January 4. Members and their guests are invited and all reservations must be made through Mrs. Charles Chaff. Telephone 726-0538 no later than January 22.

New members introduced at the meeting were: Mrs. William Kennedy, Mrs. Robert Hoan, Mrs. Ray Anderson, Mrs. Gary Marcy, Mrs. Albert Turbessi and Mrs. Derek White.

Hats Are Back!

NEW YORK (AP) — Rooms must be bigger, doors wider, men taller and women stronger to cope with the heady season of spring hats. A green thumb, a sense of humor and a Southern accent would help, too.

The architecture was properly grandiose at the Americana Hotel on Sunday where the Millinery Institute topped off the New York Couture Group's press week activities with perhaps the largest hats in fashion history.

The calendar girl is back. Though not the type that Playboy fans are used to, she could carry her floppy, wide-brimmed hat and cover more than she does with her minidress. The portrait hat is back, though by its size it seems more appropriate for wall murals. Some were four feet in diameter.

Queen Mary's big garden hats will be in full bloom this spring, too. Indeed, there will be enough things growing on the tops of women's heads, dangling down their backs, or flowering around their shoulders to overjoy the birds and bees.

Altar-Rosary Soc. Meets Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening at 6:30 the Altar and Rosary Society of Holy Redeemer Parish will meet at 6:30 p. m. The committee will provide the meat and those attending are asked to bring a variety of tureens; each one is also to bring her own table service.

Heading the committee is Mrs. Laurence Bancroft and those serving on committee are, Mrs. Louis Gnage, Mrs. W. R. Blackwell, Mrs. Albert Kerver, Mrs. Richard Kerven, Mrs. Walter Pearson, Mrs. Nicl Tasone, Mrs. William Hesch and Mrs. Sherry Stanko.

The dinner will be followed by the regular business meeting.

Cootiettes Begin New Activities

The Hayseed Cootiette Club at its recent meeting heard hospital chairman Mary Tellman report on the progress made on the hospital program. Mrs. Tellman also said a few words on another project which is to be started.

Applications for new members were voted on favorably, with Lucille Sullivan appointed as assistant mistress of ceremonies in charge of the initiation.

During the social hour, Minnie Townley and Lucille Sullivan assisted in the serving of refreshments. The next Cootiette meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, February 7.

VFW Auxiliary Schedule Events During Meeting

At the recent meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW Post No. 631 plans were made to hold a White Elephant sale on the 11th. All members are to bring clothing and other items to the meeting, and again on the 25th to prepare for a rummage sale being held on January 26 and 27, Friday and Saturday. The rummage sale will take place in the VFW Club, downstairs.

President Jeanne Godwin presided at the meeting and Minnie Townley reported on the Christmas party for veterans at Warren State Hospital. Of those present at the meeting, all widows were given boxed candy, with fruit and candy sent to "shut-in" members.

For the social hour after the meeting a lunch was served by the social committee, Elizabeth English and Minnie Townley.

Samuel Dunning, pastor, officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Rapp of 579 Pollett Run road and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. The bride, escorted on the arm of her father, appeared in a long sleeved, white wool street length dress. She wore a feathered headpiece which was secured by a brief veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The maid of honor, Barbara Olson of Falconer, wore a powder blue wool dress with a matching headpiece. Her bouquet was of pink tipped white carnations. The best man was Don Jameson, brother of the groom. A reception followed at the home of the Jamesons in Youngsville with the parents of the couple as hosts to twenty-five guests. Miss Jean Jameson, sister of the groom, and Miss Peggy Rapp, sister of the bride, were also hostesses assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Darling, sister of the groom.

If the Shoe Fits

James R. Valone

Footsaving Education What is the difference between a corn and a callous?

The most common of all foot ills are the corn and callous. caused by ill-fitting shoes. When there is constant pressure or friction on any given point of the foot, a callous or hardened layer of skin will form. It is nature's way of protecting the tiny nerves and other sensitive tissue beneath the top skin layers. These calloused areas are usually found on the toes, the heel, and under the ball of the foot.

A corn starts as a callous, but with constant pressure and friction it develops a cone-shaped core with the point penetrating into the toe and pressing upon the nerves. This is nature's way of signalling that the pressure on the corn be relieved.

Callouses can occur on bare feet. The corn, however, is found only among shoe wearing people. Usually the shoe is too short or too narrow or the foot is improperly fit, or incorrect design. A corn can also be caused by swelling foot, which develops the same pressure as a shoe too short or too narrow.

CALL TO CONFERENCE

The War must be stopped now. The money being wasted on war must be directed to the fight for civil rights, education, housing, anti-poverty programs, and the establishment of a peaceful world.

The feelings of Pennsylvanians on these issues must find expression in the crucial 1968 elections. We must force the major political parties to express the will of the people.

To achieve these goals, we call upon you to attend a Pennsylvania statewide conference on the 1968 elections at Harrisburg on January 13-14.

The conference will organize and coordinate electoral activity in the state, thus providing the maximum opportunity for the citizens of our Commonwealth to express their will at the polls.

The PENNSYLVANIA ELECTORAL CONFERENCE is a springboard for effective peace action at the polls in the critical elections of '68. Planned by peace and civil rights people from all over the state, the Conference will offer detailed, practical training in effective political action and a thorough discussion of political alternatives. The Conference as a whole will take no position. After the Conference, caucuses will provide an opportunity for like-minded people to discuss and coordinate their election strategies.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND. Every voter in Pennsylvania who wants a real choice in the '68 elections should be part of this conference. Here the managers and captains will be trained and the decisions made. The time is short; petitions for candidates must start circulating ten days after the Conference.

AGENDA OUTLINE. Saturday, January 13. Registration at noon. Conference convenes at 1 p. m., with keynote speaker and political action workshops -- the 'nitty-gritty' from fund-raising to poll watching -- reports and discussion. At 8 p. m., speakers and discussion of presidential primaries and national convention delegates.

Sunday, January 14. Interfaith prayer meeting at 8:30 a. m. At 9 a. m., panels on senate and congressional races, independent politics. Reports and summary; conference adjourns at noon; caucus rooms available.

RESERVATIONS AND HOUSING. You'll find it much more convenient to stay at the Harrisburger Hotel, where the conference is being held. By reserving your room through us, at special discount rates, you help to pay for the meeting rooms. Rates are: single--$6.00; double bed--$8.00; twin beds--$12.50; a cot in any room--$3.50 extra. Some free hospitality will be available in Harrisburg homes, but must be reserved early.

CONFERENCE REGISTRATION. To avoid delay at the conference, please register in advance. The regular fee is $3.00, students and unemployed $1.00. By completing the registration form, you will enable us to make useful lists of active people in every district, by party.

Please cut and mail with check or money order, payable to:

County Cage Teams Play Heavy Schedule Tonight

Area hardwoods will be packed with action tonight as all five county teams continue their bids for cage titles. Only two games are slated for local action as Youngsville hosts West Forest and Tidioute welcomes Eisenhower. The Warren Dragons will travel to Corry and Sheffield will journey to East Forest.

The Wolverines carry the best record of all county teams with eight wins and only one loss. Eisenhower's Knights chime in second with a 5-5 slate, while Youngsville makes their bid tonight with a 4-7 reading. The Dragons have captured only two wins to six defeats and Tidioute remains winless at 0-5.

The Eagles' contest with West Forest Indians could move them 1-1 in their league after they dropped their UAYL opener to Spartansburg, 56-46. Coach Paul Siegel will stick to a lineup of seven cagers as all are able to handle the ball with ease.

High scorer Denny Walton will make the tipoff as he now carries a 14-point average for eleven games. Walton is being paced by George Nelson, also slated to start, who carries a 13-point average. Gary Wood, Tom Burleigh and Jack Maze should round out the Eagle starters. Also seeing plenty of action will be Rich Andrews and Bob Long.

The Indians carry a 1-5 record in interscholastic play, their only win coming on a 73-71 edge over North Clarion. Mike Vermillion, returning junior, has been scoring high for the Indians with an average close to 20 points. The only other letterman on the Forest squad is Randy Busch, Busch also hits in the double figures, with his best being 20 points in the North Clarion contest.

Last Friday the Indians met defeat at the hands of Commodore Perry, 81-70. This will be the first league game for West Forest.

The mighty Ike Knights will be searching for their fifth win in a row in an effort to move their league record to 2-0. The Blue and Gold cagers came nine points from behind last week and slipped past Pleasantville, 65-62.

Bob Burlingame continued to lead the Ike cagers in the point category as he scored 32 against the Bears to move his record to over 30 points a game.

Greg Johnson, Alan Swanson, Jeff Lindell, and Tim Allen will complete the Blue and Gold starting five.

Tidioute Coach Jim Bodamer named a field of eight cagers as all likely prospects for the tipoff. Ed Ziegler, Fritz Anderson, Mark Rondinelli, Scott McKay, Ron Carr, Jack Shields, Ed Vincent, and Ed King are the eight from which Bodamer will select his starting five.

In last year's meetings the Knights triumphed in both contests. In the first game Burlingame netted 21 points as the Knights collected a 83-68 victory. In the second contest the Knights won 80-67, while Burlingame netted 23 points for the Blue and Gold.

The Dragons will be facing a tough Beaver squad that boasts a 4-3 slate. Warren lost its Section II opener last week to Franklin, 83-47, while Corry fell at the hands of Cranberry, 55-53.

Coach Joe Shantz will be making only one change in the Dragon lineup and that will be the addition of Rob Loranger to the starting five. Also slated for the tipoff are Mike Hackett and the O'Neil brothers, Ed and Dan. Dan Krumm will be the fifth cager on the circle, although he has been ill with the flu, in which case Randy Jones will get the starting nod.

Coaching the Beavers will be Joe Frisina, former mentor at Spartansburg where he led the Spartans to a 17-5 record last year. Starters for the Orange and Black will include Dave Curtis 6-1, Tom Xander 6-2, Tiny Schwab 6-4, Dan Taylor 5-7 and Bill Blynt 6-0.

Schwab has been doing - the scoring for Corry with an 18-point average per game. Curtis has also been hitting high for the Beavers with an average of 15 points a game. Height will definitely be a problem for the Blue and White as they make their second bid for a section victory.

The Wolverines should be fighting hard this week for a victory after facing their first defeat last week in a 62-56 tilt with Brockway. It was the Wolverines' first venture into league play this season and the results were not so gratifying.

Four cagers were named to start by Coach Nick Creola. The fifth roundballer could come from a trio of Wolverines. Robbie Hart gets the nod for the board position as he has collected the most rebounds for the Orange and Black. Wayne Swanson still holds scoring honors to earn the starting nod along with Jeff Scalise and Mark McGuire. The fifth cager will either be Tim Hezel, Rick Grubbs, or Mike Steffan.

East Forest collected a victory last week over Tidioute, 110-70. It was the first win for the Bears this season. Jim Gatesman is the leading scorer for the Bears with a 17 point average.

Beaty Posts First Win, Tips Corry

Beaty Junior High School's basketball team posted its first victory of the young season yesterday, tripping the visiting Corry freshmen, 56-47.

The Little Dragons exploded in the third period to break a 22-22 halftime deadlock, pouring 20 points through the bucket online for the Beaver frosh.

Beaty was outscored in the final quarter, but hung on for the win.

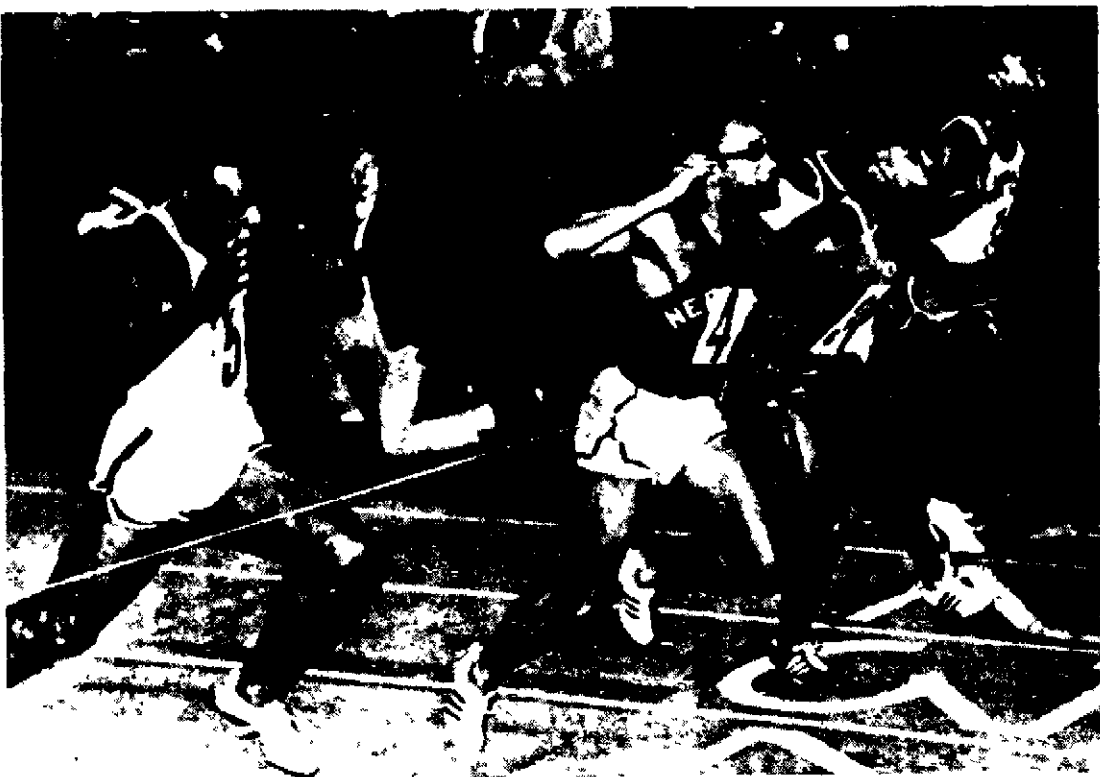

Larry Roth and Mark Krumm were the big point getters for Beaty with 12 and 11 respectively. Corry's Bloom led all scorers with 18 points.

In a preliminary game, the local seventh and eighth grade team defeated Corry's under-graduates by a 45 to 34 score. Dan Phillips pumped in 22 for Beaty and Mike Plehuta hit 10.

Warren's freshmen are coached by Rod Vashaw, former Sheffield High varsity mentor. Ted Oachs handles the seventh and eighth grade cagers.

Friday, the Beaty team travels to Bradford for a contest with School Street Junior High.

BLOWS HOME A WINNER

That little extra effort showing on the face of Billy Gaines (third from left) may have earned him first place in the 60-yard dash at the All-American Track and Field Games at San Francisco last Friday night. Gaines, last year's New Jersey high school flash, covered the distance in six seconds flat to edge out Olympian Charlie Green (sunglasses) and Mel Pender (hidden by Gaines). At left is Jim Hines, Texas Southern star, and Kirk Clayton is at extreme right.

Dragon Mat Team Hosting Resurgent Beavers Tonite

Warren Area High School's wrestling team, still unbeaten, continues Section II competition tonight by hosting the Corry Beavers, always a rough opponent for the Dragons.

The Blue and White opened its conference schedule last Friday by whipping Franklin 27-9, while Corry was romping over newcomer Cranberry by a 37-6 score. Other Section matches saw Titusville whip defending champion Meadville, 27-15, and Oil City rout Rocky Grove, the other first-year team, 44-9.

Coached by former Dragon star Bob Benson, in his second season, Corry has won two matches against a single defeat and added a first place in their own holiday tournament.

Corry has come on strong since that defeat, upsetting Titusville for first place in the tourney by taking eight individual titles to only three for the runner-up Rockets, then whipping Cranberry the last time out.

With eight returning lettermen, Corry has plenty of experience in the lineup. Section champion Dick Harrington is the leader at 133 pounds. Others include Jeff Jackson (95), Larry Dingfelder (103), Dean Fralick (120), Alan Higley (127), Mike Thomas (138) and Denny Bogert (180).

The Dragons will be back in top form for the match with the return of co-captain Doug Sorensen at 127. Sorensen missed the Franklin match because of illness.

Three Warren grapplers will be protecting perfect records tonight: Sorensen (127), Jim Mead (133) and Mike Maines (145).

Coach Mike Weber, remembering the loss to Corry in last season's first meeting, is expecting a close match tonight. The Beavers have always been able to get "up" for Warren and the situation has been intensified since Benson took the helm.

Corry has a strong following and a heavy attendance by Beaver fans is anticipated. Junior varsity matches will start at 8:30 p.m. with varsity bouts slated for about 8 p.m.

Probable lineups will be as follows:

Cliff Betts: No One Stood Taller

Besides the loss of a leading industrialist and humanitarian, the recent passing of Cliff Betts has cost Warren's athletics one of its greatest benefactors.

In his own quiet way Cliff Betts has done as much as any man to promote and aid sports on all levels in this community.

His sponsorship of numerous teams in many forms of athletics was more than a token offering. He was sincerely interested in the progress of local sports and his genuine enthusiasm earned him the respect of all the men and boys with whom he came in contact.

Considering his many and varied endeavors, perhaps his greatest contribution and the one for which he would most like to be remembered, was to softball.

Cliff Betts clearly deserved his title as Warren's "Mr. Softball."

He was a guiding force in the installation of lights and the improvements made at Carbon Memorial Field, and his sponsorship of teams during a crucial period of the City Softball League probably saved the fast-pitch game here.

His contribution to the Hot Stove Baseball program will also not be forgotten. He was one of the original sponsors in the loop's infancy. He was without a doubt, sincerely interested in boys and their participation in sports.

It has often been said that no man stands taller than when he stoops to help a boy. No one stood taller than Cliff Betts.

Feud Flares Again; Talk Grid Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — The long-simmering AAU-NCAA feud over control of amateur athletics flared again Monday when the U.S. Track and Field Federation threatened to take legal action if the AAU suspended competitors in an invitation to meet planned next month.

"We are ready to challenge the monopolistic measures of the AAU in court and get proper redress if necessary," said Father W. H. Crowley, president of the USTFF, which is vying with the AAU over control of track and field events.

Father Crowley said that the USTFF would not ask AAU sanction of the Madison Square Garden scheduled Feb. 9.

Among the athletes slated to compete are Jim Ryun, world record holder in the mile; Bob Seagren, indoor pole vault record holder, and Gerry Lindgren, three-time NCAA cross-country champion.

There was no indication that the AAU would take action although in the past it has demanded that athletes get AAU sanction in meets with open competitors.

Earlier, the National Collegiate Athletic Association said it was considering a college Super Bowl to compete with the pros.

"This is just one of the several proposals submitted," Paul Brechler, commissioner of the Western Athletic Conference, said Monday after the first meeting of the nine-man NCAA committee named a year ago to study the feasibility of a college football championship playoff.

"Our purpose is to find out if there is a workable plan and, if so, to submit it to the convention a year from now. If it's found impractical, that's the report we'll make."

If a playoff plan is devised and accepted, Brechler, chairman of the committee said, it could be put into effect the fall of 1969.

Brechler denied that escalating television monies were a factor in the NCAA's playoff interest but added:

"We have to be practical. We know there would be television considerations. I have heard $10 million mentioned, but I wouldn't think of estimating what such games might be worth."

One of the questions of the proposed plan for picking an official college grid champion is whether the playoffs could be held within the framework of the present bowl games.

"One proposal is that we hold the two semifinal games on Jan. 1 at two of the bowls, alternating them each year, and then have the final game a week later," Brechler said. Some already have dubbed the title game the NCAA's Super Bowl.

"Other suggestions are that we hold the playoffs the first three weeks in December and have them over before New Year's," Brechler added. "But some insist this would take the lustre off the bowls."

The committee chairman said the American Football Coaches Association, the official body of college coaches, had expressed favor for a football playoff.

Wolman Has Extension From Court

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jerry Wolman, multimillionaire real estate developer and owner of the Philadelphia Eagles in the National Football League, was granted Monday his second 15-day extension to detail his assets and liabilities.
Wolman originally filed in U. S. District Court Dec. 13 papers in which he hopes to stave off an order of bankruptcy. At the time, he filed only a summary of assets listed at $92.3 million and liabilities of $85.7 million.
The referee in bankruptcy, Joseph O. Kaiser, gave Wolman until Jan. 8 to submit a statement of affairs, schedules of assets and liabilities and statement of executory contracts.
Acknowledging he was unable to pay his debts as they mature, Wolman will offer a plan to satisfy his creditors. The arrangement would be subject to approval to a majority of the creditors and Kaiser.
Wolman listed 280 creditors originally, but did not show their individual claims. Since then, the American National Bank of Maryland filed a petition seeking permission to foreclose on a mortgage of $10.5 million on Georgian Towers, an apartment house under construction in Silver Spring.

Cardinal Ottaviani Resigns; Successor from Yugoslavia

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Ultraconservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani has resigned as the highest authority on faith and morals in the government of the Roman Catholic Church, the Vatican announced Monday.

Pope Paul VI accepted the resignation, calling it a "most noble gesture," and appointed a prelate from Communist Yugoslavia, Franjo Cardinal Seper, as Cardinal Ottaviani's successor.

More than any other person, he has been the symbol of the evolution of the half-billion-member Church in this decade from a closed, conservative institution to one struggling with a new role in the space age.

Cardinal Ottaviani, 77, was regarded by progressive clerics as a major obstacle to Church modernization. As prefect of the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, he wielded immense behind-the-scenes power and described himself as a "policeman" guarding Church tradition.

The appointment of Cardinal Seper, 63, archbishop of Zagreb, is the most dramatic move so far in Pope Paul's efforts to internationalize the Italian-dominated Roman Curia, the central Church administration.

Informed Vatican sources said Cardinal Ottaviani leaves "in pectus" (on his feet)—meaning the resignation was forced neither by health reasons nor by direct intervention of the Pope. They said that although he has been partially blind for more than a decade, he is in good health. They also said his resignation has been sitting on Pope Paul's desk for some time, the pontiff having turned it down until now.

Last February, the pontiff praised Cardinal Ottaviani in a letter as "my friend and teacher" and expressed the hope he would remain at his post for many years to come. He had warm praise again for the cardinal in his letter accepting the resignation, printed Monday by the Vatican paper L'Osservatore Romano.

Officials close to Cardinal Ottaviani let out the word that he had resigned to "set an example" for older prelates in high Curia positions. Pope Paul asked Curia cardinals more than a year ago to put their jobs at his disposal. Vatican informants, however, reported the conviction in high Church circles that the cardinal felt himself increasingly isolated by the movement for liberalization that began with the 1962-65 Second Vatican Council.

Since 1935 he had been a high official of the congregation, which grew out of the 16th-century Inquisition. Since 1953 he

Polls Say LBJ Ahead Of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two public opinion polls reported Monday that President Johnson is running ahead of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

A special survey by Louis Harris, copyrighted by the Washington Post, said Johnson is riding a new crest of popularity that would make him the favorite over all four leading Republican presidential contenders if the election were held now.

This is a reversal of the situation two months ago when a Harris survey indicated that any one of the four GOP possibilities could defeat the President.

The Gallup Poll reported that in a two-way race Johnson would have a 46 to 41 per cent edge over Nixon with 13 per cent undecided.

In a national sample of adults in 310 locations around the country, the Gallup Poll reported that if Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., ran as an independent peace candidate in a four-way race he could expect about nine million votes.

This poll matched McCarthy against Johnson, Nixon and former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, a probable states rights third-party candidate.

McCarthy has said he intends to compete with Johnson for the Democratic nomination and does not plan to run as an independent.

The Harris survey was completed Dec. 21 and covered 2,003 households. It said: — Although Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York ties Johnson 43 to 43 per cent in a two-way race, when Wallace is added to the list Johnson takes the lead over Rockefeller 41 to 37 per cent, with Wallace receiving 12 per cent.

— Against Nixon Johnson now has opened up a 50 to 41 per cent edge, a three-point gain for the President in three weeks and a nine-point rise in two months.

— Johnson runs ahead of Gov. George Romney of Michigan by 49 to 36 per cent, up two points in three weeks and 12 points in eight weeks.

— Gov. Ronald Reagan of California trails Johnson 37 to 51 per cent, a slippage of nine points in eight weeks.

had run it as basically the sole administrative arbiter of doctrinal questions from dioceses around the world.

At the Vatican Council, however, he often found himself angered by progressive bishops who repeatedly denounced his congregation's supersecrecy. After the council, Pope Paul changed the congregation's name from the "Holy Office," which for centuries had evoked

Philly Receives Grant For Neighborhood Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heads of four government agencies announced Monday approval of $24 million in grants for 11 cities in response to President Johnson's pledge for "the establishment—in every ghetto in America — of a neighborhood center to service the people who live there."

They said the experimental project will try to achieve coordination of federal, state and local services in poverty neighborhoods.

Officials have said that lack of such coordination has held back progress in the antipoverty program, which now operates about 700 neighborhood centers around the country.

Announcement of the project was made jointly by Secretaries W. Willard Wirtz of the Labor Department, Robert C. Weaver of Housing and Urban Development, John W. Gardner, of Health, Education and Welfare, and Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The cities selected are Boston, Chattanooga, Chicago, Cincinnati, Dallas, Detroit, Louisville, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, St.

Louis and Washington, D.C. Approval is expected within the next month for Jacksonville, Fla., New York, and Oakland, Calif.

In seven of the cities selected, the target neighborhoods already have been chosen for the model-city program and the two projects will be coordinated.

In about half the cities, the new neighborhood center project will succeed antipoverty services centers. Officials said in some cases the antipoverty agencies center will serve as a nucleus for the new setup.

A basic goal of the new program is to provide a single place where an individual or family can go for guidance.

The $24 million is to go for services such as job information and training, health care for mothers and children, education and recreation. Of the total $11 million is to go for construction or rehabilitation of buildings for the centers.

Officials said the new centers are to be run much like those in the antipoverty program. That means poor people must be involved in the planning and operation.

Don Girton Leaves Warren For Milwaukee

Donald S. Girton, deputy supervisor Allegheny National Forest, left Monday for U.S. Forest Service Region 9 headquarters in Milwaukee.

He is conferring with regional officials, preliminary to taking up his duties on January 16, for his new assignment in the Division of Information and Education at Milwaukee headquarters.

Girton came to Allegheny National Forest in May of 1966 as deputy supervisor. His new post represents a promotion. His work here has been primarily in planning phases of the entire forest operating program, including Blue Jay Corps center.

Girton expresses regret over leaving the Warren area. "We have thoroughly enjoyed living in Warren," he says. "We have found people friendly and the community interesting." He says Allegheny National Forest is most interesting, because of the wide variety of activities it embraces.

Girton and his wife Nancy Martha and their 15-month-old son Stephen, will reside in Shore Wood, a Milwaukee suburb on Lake Michigan.

Fireman Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An elderly volunteer fireman died Monday during a fire in his four-room home in Chalfant Borough.

The body of James Manos, 89, was found near the kitchen stove, and authorities said he apparently was cooking when the fire started.

An autopsy was ordered to determine if he died of a heart attack or from burns or smoke inhalation.

Damage was estimated at $3,000.
